No one now can realize the extent of the catastrophe. and daylight will alone reveal the saddest scene of ruin and desolation ever witnessed in southern Kansas.

The Cole and Robinson block ruins took fire, and strenuous efforts are being made to ! rescue the people known to be buried there. It is now believed that the list of the dead will number between twenty and thirty and the injured about seventy.

The awful visitation came from the funnel-shaped cloud which ploughed its devastating track through the business part of

A heavy storm of wind preceded the exclone about half an hour. A few minutes after D o'clock the cyclone struck the city coming from the southwest. There were no premonitory signs. A meeting of the Salvation Army was in progress in a hall near the Robinson block. The falling walls of the block crushed the hall and it is known that two were killed. It is probable when the wreck has been cleared away It will be found that many more perished.

It was past time for the army to adjourn, but the storm kept them in. One of the members was engaged in prayer when the cyclone struck the Robinson Block.
